EDITORIAL RESPONSIBILITIES

The editor-in-chief is responsible for deciding which articles submitted to Istorijski časopis will be published. He is guided by the editorial policy and constrained by legal requirements in force regarding libel, copyright infringement and plagiarism.

The editor must hold no conflict of interest with regard to the articles he considers for publication. If such conflict exists, the editorial board shall decide on the choice of reviewers and the fate of manuscripts. Since the identity of authors and reviewers is mutually unknown, the editor must warrant their anonymity.

The editor shall evaluate the manuscript based on its contents, without any racial, sexual/gender, religious, ethnical and political bias.

Unpublished materials disclosed in a submitted manuscript must not be used in an editor's own research without the express written consent of the author.

AUTHORS' RESPONSIBILITIES

Authors warrant that the manuscript represents their original contribution, that it has not been published before and is not considered for publication elsewhere. Authors also warrant that following publication in Istorijski časopis, the manuscript will not be published in another publication in any language without the consent of the copyright holder.

Authors warrant that the rights of third parties will not be violated and that the publisher will not be held legally responsible should there be any claims for compensation.

Authors are exclusively responsible for the contents of their submissions and the validity of results, and must obtain permission from all involved parties to make the data public.

Authors wishing to include figures or text passages that have already been published elsewhere are required to obtain permission from the copyright holders and, when submitting their papers, to present evidence that such permission has been granted. Any material received without such evidence shall be assumed to originate from the authors.

Authors warrant that only those persons who significantly contributed to the submission are listed as authors.

Authors must comply with ethical standards relating to scientific-research work. Authors warrant that the paper does not contain plagiarism. Authors affirm that the article does not contain unfounded or unlawful claims and does not violate the rights of others.

When an author discovers a significant error in his/her own published work, he/she must promptly inform the editor or publisher, and cooperate with them so as to retract or correct the paper, or to otherwise indicate the error.

PEER REVIEW

The submitted papers are subject to the peer review process. The purpose of the peer review is to assist the editor and the editorial board to make the decision on whether the paper should be accepted or rejected, and to improve its quality through communication with authors. All papers undergo an anonymous reviewing process by two expert reviewers appointed by the editorial board. The identity of authors is not disclosed to reviewers and vice versa. For a paper to be published, both reviews must be positive. The authors who receive conditionally positive reviews are required to take into account the reviewers' comments or, if they do not wish to do so, to withdraw their submissions. The author is required to send the amended paper to the journal within fifteen days after receiving the reviews. The reviewer should send the finished review within three weeks.

The choice of reviewers falls within discretionary rights of the editor and the editorial board. Reviewers must be knowledgeable about the subject area of the manuscript. They cannot be authors who recently published publications together (as co-authors) with any of the authors of the submitted paper.

The reviewer considering himself incompetent for the topic or the area that the manuscript deals with shall inform the editor thereof.

The review must be objective. The reviewers' judgment must be clear and substantiated with arguments.

Any manuscripts received for review must be treated as confidential documents.

In the main review phase, the editor-in-chief sends the submitted paper to designated reviewers. The reviewers' evaluation form contains a checklist to help reviewers cover all aspects that can decide the fate of a submission. In the final section of the form, reviewers must include their observations and suggestions aimed at improving the submitted manuscript. The secretary of the editorial board of Istorijski časopis sends the reviewers' evaluation list to the reviewer.

During the entire process, reviewers act independently of one another and are not aware of each other's identities.

The editorial board must ensure reasonable quality control for the reviews. In the case that authors have serious and grounded objections to the review, the editorial board will check whether the review is objective and meets academic standards. If doubts arise as to the objectivity or quality of the review, the editor will ask for the opinion of other reviewers.

PLAGIARISM

Plagiarism, i.e. assuming another's ideas, words or other forms of creative expression and presenting them as one's own, is serious violation of scientific ethics. Plagiarism may also involve copyright infringement, which is punishable by law.

Plagiarism includes the following:

- verbatim or almost verbatim quotation or intentional paraphrasing (with the aim to conceal plagiarism) parts of texts of other authors without clear acknowledgment of the source or marking the copied fragments (for instance, using quotation marks);
- copying equations, figures or tables from someone else's papers without properly citing the source and/or without permission of the authors or copyright holders.

Please note that all submissions are thoroughly checked for plagiarism or autoplagiarism.

Any paper which shows obvious signs of plagiarism will be automatically rejected.

If it is determined that a paper published in Istorijski časopis is plagiarism, the author will be requested to publish a written apology to the authors of the original work. Further cooperation with authors of plagiarised papers will be terminated.

RETRACTION POLICY

Articles that have been published shall remain extant, exact and unaltered as long as it is possible. However, very occasionally, circumstances may arise where an article is published that must later be retracted. The main reason for retraction is to correct the mistake while preserving the integrity of science; it is not to punish the author.

Infringements of rights of the publisher, copyright holders or author(s), infringements of professional ethical codes, such as multiple submissions, bogus claims of authorship, plagiarism, fraudulent use of data or the like require retraction of an article. Occasionally a retraction can be used to correct errors in submission or publication.

Standards for dealing with retractions have been developed by a number of library and scholarly bodies, and this practice has been adopted for article retraction by Istorijski časopis: in the electronic version of the retraction note, a link is made to the original article. In the electronic version of the original article, a HTML link is made to the retraction note where it is clearly stated that the article has been retracted. The original article is retained unchanged, save for a watermark on the PDF indicating on each page that it is "retracted."

OPEN ACCESS POLICY

Istorijski časopis is an Open Access journal. Papers published in the journal may be downloaded free of charge from the website of the journal and used in accordance with Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 3.0 Serbia (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/3.0/rs/>).

Istorijski časopis does not charge APC (Article Processing Charge).

SELF-ARCHIVING POLICY

The journal allows authors to deposit the accepted, reviewed version of the article, and the final published PDF version in an institutional repository and/or non-commercial repositories, or to publish it on personal web pages (including social networking sites, such as ResearchGate, Academia.edu, etc.) and/or the website of the institution where they are employed, in accordance with Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 3.0 Serbia (<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/3.0/rs/>) at any time after publication in the journal. The publisher, as the copyright holder, and source must be acknowledged and a HTML link must be made to the article's DOI.
